WHO WE ARE

Our Domestic Litigation Support team brings significant experience in providing business and financial advice in litigious as well as collaborative situations. Our highly-trained and credentialed team includes valuation analysts, forensic financial analysts and a divorce financial analyst giving us collective bandwidth unrivaled by any other Domestic Litigation Support practice in Atlanta.

The necessary technical know-how and experience are only part of achieving the best economic and financial results possible in a marital dissolution. Equally important is paying attention to the needs of our clients. Our team members listen to our clients to understand what is most important to them and how we can best service them, fostering a level of invaluable personal care during the divorce process.

WHAT WE DO

We provide assistance to counsel at every stage of the litigation or collaborative process as requested. We work at the direction of counsel and have provided services for plaintiffs and defendants. We can assist counsel through the entire process from discovery and fact finding, analysis of information, settlement negotiations to trial support or we can provide assistance for a single element of the engagement.

Team members also have significant mediation, collaboration, and trial experience and are recognized by clients and attorneys as premier service providers. Our team has also been selected by judges on numerous occasions to work for both parties to the litigation.
